3. Activity name: Entrepreneurship Development Program Report on Sanitary Napkin Preparation

Date: 17-03-2021

Introduction: Entrepreneurship Development Programs (EDPs) play a pivotal role in fostering innovation and economic growth by empowering individuals to become successful entrepreneurs. One such program focused on the production of sanitary napkins aimed not only at providing a vital product for women's health and hygiene but also at empowering women through entrepreneurship. This report encapsulates the key aspects, outcomes, and potential impact of such a program.

Program Overview: The entrepreneurship development program centered on the production of sanitary napkins targeted individuals, especially women, interested in venturing into the hygiene product manufacturing sector. It provided comprehensive training, mentorship, and resources to equip participants with the necessary skills and knowledge to establish and run their own sanitary napkin manufacturing units.

Curriculum and Training: The program curriculum encompassed various facets crucial for entrepreneurship in this domain. It included theoretical sessions on hygiene awareness, menstrual health, market analysis, business planning, production processes, quality control, marketing strategies, and financial management. Practical training modules allowed participants to gain hands-on experience in sanitary napkin production, using modern machinery and techniques.

Mentorship and Support: Mentorship played a vital role in guiding participants throughout the program and beyond. Experienced entrepreneurs, industry experts, and professionals provided personalized guidance, feedback, and support to help participants navigate challenges and optimize their business strategies.

1. Empowerment of Women: By targeting women entrepreneurs, the program contributed to gender empowerment and economic independence, enabling women to break socio-economic barriers and become self-reliant.

2. Improved Hygiene: The establishment of local sanitary napkin manufacturing units led to increased accessibility and affordability of quality menstrual hygiene products, consequently promoting better menstrual health practices and reducing the prevalence of hygiene-related illnesses.
3. Employment Generation: The setup of manufacturing units created employment opportunities, both directly through production activities and indirectly through associated services such as distribution, marketing, and logistics.
4. Community Development: The program fostered community development by stimulating economic growth, fostering entrepreneurship culture, and enhancing the overall well-being of the community, particularly in rural areas.

Conclusion: The Entrepreneurship Development Program on Sanitary Napkin Preparation emerged as a catalyst for socio-economic transformation, empowering individuals, enhancing hygiene practices, and fostering community development. By nurturing entrepreneurship in the hygiene product manufacturing sector, the program not only addressed a critical societal need but also laid the foundation for sustainable economic development and inclusive growth.

Introduction:

On 16-06-2022, a guest lecture on Goods and Services Tax (GST) was organized at TTWRDC(W), Siricilla. The lecture aimed to provide insights into the fundamentals of GST, its implications on various sectors, and recent developments in GST legislation.

1. Introduction to GST:

The speaker began by introducing the concept of GST, highlighting its significance as a comprehensive indirect tax levied on the supply of goods and services. They discussed the transition from the previous tax regime to GST in India and the objectives behind its implementation, including simplification of taxation and elimination of cascading effects.

2. GST Structure and Components:

The lecture elaborated on the structure of GST, which comprises Central GST (CGST), State GST (SGST), and Integrated GST (IGST). The speaker explained the roles of the Central and State governments in GST administration and the division of taxing rights between them. Additionally, they outlined the composition scheme and input tax credit mechanism under GST.

3. Impact on Businesses:

The guest speaker delved into the impact of GST on businesses, emphasizing its role in streamlining taxation processes, reducing compliance burdens, and promoting ease of doing business. They discussed how GST has facilitated a unified national market by eliminating inter-state barriers and fostering a level playing field for businesses across states.

4. Sectoral Implications:

The lecture analyzed the sectoral implications of GST, focusing on its effects on industries such as manufacturing, services, e-commerce, and agriculture. The speaker highlighted specific challenges and opportunities faced by each sector in adapting to the GST framework, including changes in pricing strategies, supply chain management, and compliance requirements.

5. Recent Developments and Future Outlook:

The speaker provided insights into recent developments in GST legislation, including updates on tax rates, compliance requirements, and technological advancements in GSTN (Goods and Services Tax Network). They also discussed potential future reforms and challenges in GST implementation, such as addressing input tax credit fraud and simplifying return filing procedures.

Conclusion:

The guest lecture on Goods and Services Tax provided a comprehensive understanding of the GST framework, its impact on businesses and sectors, and recent developments in GST legislation. Attendees gained valuable insights into the practical implications of GST and its role in shaping India's indirect tax landscape.

Overall, the lecture served as an enriching platform for knowledge exchange and dialogue on one of the most significant tax reforms in India's economic history.
